Delivered by Mrs N. Singh 21/01/2021

Aims Of the Session

OProvide useful strategies to support remote learning

OProvide useful websites to further supplement live streamed lessons

Helpful strategies to support your child with online learning

- O Establish routines to stay and get organised
- O Ensure that your child is on-line from 9:00-3:00
- O Help students 'own' their learning
- O Encourage physical activity
- O Centre the child not the work -Use praise to engage and encourage
- O Promote independence and self direct where possible
- O Communicate with the teacher via weekly telephone calls so that areas of learning or concerns can be addressed.
- O Play to your child's strength

Helpful strategies to support your child with online learning

- O Begin and end the day by checking-in
- O In the morning, you might ask:
- O What classes/subject do you have today?
 - Do you have any assessments?
 - How will you spend your time?
 - What resources do you need?
 - What can I do to help?
- O At the end of the day you might ask:
 - How far did you get in your learning tasks today?
 - What did you discover? What was hard?
 - What could we do to make tomorrow better?

Helpful strategies to support your child with online learning

O To understand strengths-based education, teachers learn that focusing on what pupils don't do well can cause them to become disengaged, while focusing on their strengths — things they enjoy doing, are good at, and choose to do, explains psychologist Lea Waters, Ph.D. — increases feelings of competence, meaning and autonomy.

Children look to their parents to figure out how to react to new or intimidating situations.

We understand, and we are here to support

No one expects parents to be full-time teachers or to be educational and content matter experts. Provide support and encouragement, and expect your children to do their part. Struggling is allowed and encouraged! Don't help too much. Becoming independent takes lots of practice.
